Dictatorship May Be Announced Today.

Revolutionists Feverishly Preparing to Fight Era of Repression.

Proletariat Forces Taunt Government and Tell It That Now is the Time to Fight, if It Wishes—Two Army Corps Concentrating for Campaign in Baltic Provinces—Steamer Sails to Take German Subjects.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sunday, via Riga, Dec. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—It is reported that a manifesto announcing a dictatorship will be published Tuesday.

TO RESCUE GERMAN SUBJECTS.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

KÖNIGSBURG (Prussia) Dec. 12.—The German steamer Wolga sailed today for Riga to bring away German subjects whose lives are endangered.

ASK PROTECTION FOR AMERICANS.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 12.—Ambassador Meyer has requested the authorities to place at the disposal of the American Consul at Moscow protection for Americans in case of an emergency.

A train which was derailed on Saturday near Gatchina is understood to have had on board $10,000,000 in gold. It is rumored that the crown jewels have been sent abroad.

The war department is concentrating two army corps to suppress the revolt in the Baltic provinces. According to the government's information, 50,000 Letts are under arms.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 12.—The Workers' Council, under the very close supervision of the police, has succeeded in printing a hundred thousand copies of its paper, announcing that the government has declared civil war upon the proletariat and saying that the challenge must be accepted. In its appeal to the people, the council declares that the government's last act, that of the seizure of the Duma, is a declaration of war upon the people and that the people must rise to meet it.

The council also contains a direct appeal to the army, urging the troops to remember that they came from the people and must not go on their knees to the government.

"The people are for us. If we are defeated it will not be our last battle. We can fight on. The government is fighting everything—its army and its finances."

Witte cannot play his hypocritical game any longer. The government has made concessions only to itself from ruin. Now, seeing that its fall is inevitable, it is making a last desperate effort to recover its position.

"We would have preferred to delay the decisive conflict until better prepared, but we cannot do that. The revolution is now upon us. Revolutionary conflict cannot be avoided."

Revolutionary organizations are making feverish preparations to fight the government's policy of repression. The Workers' Council, representatives of other proletarian organizations and the League of Leagues met secretly today and discussed matters.

The great majority of the members favored the immediate proclamation of the general strike, but it was agreed that the strike depended on whether the railroad men would participate.

There is a division of sentiment in the ranks of the railroad men and the government has made efforts to induce them to return some of the grievances, deciding that, above all things, a suspension of traffic which would make it impossible to transport troops, is most to be feared.

However, the government's note practically notifying the railroad men that if they strike the authorities will be unable to afford them protection, is regarded as a trap in which they will be abandoned to the mercies of the "Black Hundred." Another note has been issued, threatening them with "exceptional measures" if legal means do not suffice.

"FREEDOM" OF THE PRESS.

A hundred lawyers, at a meeting here today, called to protest against the government's action in arresting the editors of the local papers, adopted a resolution to only that the government's step proved that freedom of the press is a farce. It was also decided to collect evidence on which to base an indictment of the judges for presentation to the national assembly.

The police are hunting down those of the proletariat leaders who were not captured Saturday. During the night, there were many requisitions but as a rule the men in danger of arrest have taken care to destroy their papers and seek other quarters. Consequently, but few additional captures have been made.

A story is in circulation to the effect that the house of the Premier, Witte, was searched at Premier Witte's instigation to secure proof of a plot to bring about his downfall.

The cabinet today is considering the election law, at Tarskoe-Selo, under the presidency of the Emperor. It is understood that the majority of the ministers at the last moment shifted in favor of universal suffrage, excluding only the nomadic tribes, the military and government employees and those disqualified by the courts.

MUTINEERS ACQUITTED.

The military court has acquitted eighteen out of forty-nine privates of the Kronstadt artillery who were charged with mutiny in connection with the outbreak there. The others were sentenced in terms of imprisonment ranging from two to twenty-four months.

The public prosecutor informs the Associated Press that the trial of the editors whose papers were suppressed cannot occur before the holidays owing to the new regime without having recourse to harsh measures, but it received no support from the Constitutionalists or other moderates, while the leadership of the Socialists, continued their campaign in favor of armed rebellion and openly incite the army and navy to mutiny.

The climax of this campaign was reached when the government announced that it would not support the Constitutionalists or other moderates, while the leadership of the Socialists, continued their campaign in favor of armed rebellion and openly incite the army and navy to mutiny.

Famished Wolf Snatches Bread Out of Little Child's Hand in Colorado.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

VICTOR (Colo.) Dec. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—Mabel, the five-year-old daughter of Mrs. E. J. Reiber, residing one mile east of Victor near Little Bull Hill, had a startling experience with a large gray wolf this morning. The little girl was seated on the lower step at the back door of her home eating a piece of bread covered with sugar, when a gray wolf ran up to her and snatched the food from her hand. The animal then rushed out of the yard and escaped. Friday two large gray wolves were seen by County Clerk Dingman on Little Bull Hill near the home.

In the arrest of a man named Isadore Apatow, a police officer believed they will be able to clear up complaints from more than one hundred and fifty women evicted during the last three years by the man, who represented himself as the surrogate of the late Isadore Apatow, a well-known Los Angeles figure.

As they settled the surrogate's fees, which he had called to collect in advance. In each instance, the "agency" proved a myth.

THREATEN LARGE CITIES.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

ST. PETERSBURG, Saturday, Dec. 12.—The insurgents in the Baltic provinces have seized towns and large sections of the country and are threatening the larger cities.

The insurgents of Livonia, according to the latest reports, have captured the city of Riga, a military stronghold, and are carrying off the survivors of the wreck. The general commanding at Wilna, telegraphed that he is unable to send assistance, as the track is destroyed. The

IMMIGRANTS "CURED" IN EUROPEAN HOSPITALS.

United States Inspector Exposes Methods Reported to Put Proposed Citizens in Shape to Slip Past Laws of United States—Traffickers "Treated" in Hospitals.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—That diseased European immigrants are "doctored" in great numbers for shipment to this country is the charge made by Dr. Maurice Fishberg of this city, special inspector of the immigration service of the United States, who recently returned from abroad. Dr. Fishberg spent several months in the Old World, visiting the European terminals of the big trans-Atlantic steamship lines and making a special study of the shipping of Russian immigrants across the Atlantic.

Dr. Fishberg said yesterday: "The 'curing' of diseased aliens for admission to the United States has become a tremendous industry abroad. Hamburg, London, Southampton, Marseilles and at various frontier cities of Russia and Austria-Hungary, in these cities I have personally visited boarding-houses and so-called 'hospitals,' where immigrants suffering from trachoma in its most advanced stages were being treated; they might pass inspection and enter the United States."

"Trachoma is a disease of the eye of which I have a special horror. In Marseilles the 'treatment' of trachoma has assumed remarkable dimensions. Here most of the immigrants from the Orient, from Syria, Armenia and neighboring countries, come on their way to the United States. Most of the immigrants report to a man by the name of Anton Feres, who refers them to certain boarding-houses. Later, they are sent to Dr. G. Keyman, No. 20 Boulevard d'Algerie, for examination. Those who are found free from contagious diseases are given tickets, and are once shipped to Havre."

"But as soon as one of the orientals is discovered to have trachoma, Feres takes hold of the unfortunate immigrant, and says: 'There are only two ways open to you. You can either go away open-eyed, or you can go to the frontier in the United States, or you can go to a doctor here and get cured. Now, the first plan is expensive and dangerous, but the doctor is very successful. Of course, the poor fellow goes to the doctor, who, by the way, does a flourishing business. He sends the Hebrews to America chiefly by way of Germany, either sailing directly from Bremen or Hamburg, or going to England and disembarking from a British port. Little is done at Bremen or Hamburg to patch up immigrants, but at the stations along the Russian and Austrian borders the practice is common. In most cases, the so-called 'cure' is only temporary."

REBELS DEFEAT THE FORCES OF THE CZAR.

Troops in Courland Unable to Make Headway Against Insurgents, Who Hold Several Towns and Large Sections of the Baltic Provinces.

MITAU (Province of Courland, December 12.)—[Delayed.]—The insurgents in order to avoid annihilation at the hands of the insurgents, have been forced to abandon the country districts and to concentrate at Riga. Mitau, the capital of the province, is now in the hands of the insurgents. The garrison of Mitau (Lithuania), consisting of a squadron of dragoons and a company of infantry, not being able to depart in time, was set up at night and lost its commander and several officers and men.

The insurgents, evading the sentinels, penetrated the town and laid siege to the houses in front of the houses in which the garrison was concentrated. They then set fire to the houses, and the troops, rushing out, were shot down from the roofs or cut up in the narrow streets. The soldiers retreated in confusion, leaving their dead. The latter were horribly mutilated by the insurgents, who gouged out their eyes and cut off their ears and hands.

The insurgents who are formed in bands, have a regimental organization and are well armed with military rifles and bayonets.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

WALCK (Province of Livonia) Dec. 12.—Details have been received here of a regular battle between the members of a company of dragoons, who were sent to the Loka Anzeiger from Riga, Prussia, today.

"During the street fighting at Mitau, the capital of Courland, 300 persons were killed."

"At Lennawarden, in Southern Livonia, the revolutionaries liberated all the prisoners held in the district Governor Peterson and Maximovich, his secretary, and threw their bodies into the river."

STILL CALLING FOR TROOPS.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 12.—Gov. Regensk, at Riga, is still urgently calling for troops. He reports that, besides the fact that armed insurgents are disrupting the passage of the soldiers, the Russian troops are being cut off in all directions and he advises that troops be sent by water.

He says that the last reinforcements of troops on board the train Regensk December 14 near Stockmanstad, Livonia, surrendered to the insurgents. Gov. Regensk's latest advice said that the remainder of the troops held out for four days. Their position, when last heard of, was desperate.

Brugere's Brilliant
—Inside Facts of Clarity With Army
His Opponent Goes

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT]

PARIS, Dec. 2.—Gen. Brugere, commander-in-chief of the French army, finds himself in the extraordinary position of being put under arrest for a difference with a subordinate most scot-free; and yet Brugere retains his functions while the cause of the trouble does also, as the more prominent position, and his record, make the peculiar situation the more remarkable. He has held his place at the head of the army not through political considerations for his record as an officer.

When the Franco-German War Gen. Brugere was promoted for his grasp of artillery tactics, which made him one of the important victors of the French. He was made general in the same year, and rose from the rank to another, he retained the same place as the late Carnot, and they were intimate personal friends. When Carnot was President, Brugere was appointed chief of his household military staff. Brugere was born in 1841, and he will be sixty-three years old when he will go on the retired list.

The scandalous case arising from political and religious differences between army officers began under Andre's Minister of War, it was said Andre's right-hand man, General Genoin, was responsible for the active part of the work. Genoin was wisely removed from office, though retained at the head of an army division. No harm was done to him and his brother officer, however, and numerous snubs lavished upon him over the matter. Finally, ten days ago, he got arrested. He selected the commander-in-chief of the army from whom to demand recognition.

Brugere had carefully abstained from comment on the Andre-Perinot case, and had observed relations with his subordinates; but he made no account of the fact that his own command could accuse Percin when he supposed that Percin took Bois de Boulogne.

Brugere usually took pains to keep his private life free from noise, however, pretended to be ignorant of the matter. He then spurred up to the city and said: "General, I salute you." He did not answer. "I didn't see you," said Percin. "Well, it's all right," said Brugere, riding off. Percin then wrote of the war, complaining of the demand for repression, and the demand for challenge to his authority.

Then, Brugere, going back to the post a change had come to the ministry. Maurice Berteaux, Socialist Minister of War, was replaced by Raymond Poincaré, formerly Minister of Finance, moderate and liberal-minded men called both Brugere and Bigger crowds every day this week—smaller assortments every hour. Don't take the leavings. Come right away and get the most exclusive patterns. We're open evenings now; and have a big force of competent salesmen to serve you intelligently and quickly.

In previous seasons we have always had more calls for extra large smoking jackets than we could fill. This year we make a special feature of extra big smoking jackets and house coats for extra big men. And they don't cost any more than the small sizes.

We exchange any jacket bought here, or will make any alterations you desire, after Christmas. Depend on Lowman for a square deal every time.

Mammoth Shoe House
519 S. Broadway

Today More Than 6000 Pairs of Shoes and Slippers Will Go on Special Sale at Less Than Half.

The tremendous trade of the past week is proof of the appreciation of the big reductions on up-to-date shoes and the liberal Mammoth method of trading customers. A dozen extra clerks have been put on for this rush and if you have not been there yet you better go down today. You can buy women's $2 slippers at 98c, men's $2 slippers at 98c, and they represent the best values you ever bought. You will find the women's $2 slippers to be those delightfully comfortable felt shoes with fur trimmings, called Romeo or Juliet, flexible soles; also a large range of fancy slippers in kid and patent leathers. The fur trimmed Julietts come in several colors. The men's slippers are elegant hand-turned soles, finest kid and Russia calf. You will find slippers at 49c, 59c, 79c and in $1.45 lines, as fine as any store in town will charge twice the price for. Shoes, too, are at the same low prices. $1.45, $1.95, $2.45, $2.95 will buy men's and women's shoes that ordinarily sell for a dollar more at the Mammoth, and other stores would consider more.

Qualities, 25c, 35c, 45c, 55c, and you will find all sizes. Presents, of course, to every boy and girl. Better go down today—look over the offerings. They are all trimmed up in holiday attire and it's a pleasant place to shop. Money saving, too.

MAYNARD AND OUR BELLS.

THE PET STUDY OF A NEW YORK JOURNALIST.

Comes to California to Tarry and is Fascinated by Missions and Their Peas—Is Spending a Few Months in the Foothills Near by—Finds Much that Interests Him.

From a modest cottage on the foothill boulevard, where it passes through Monterey orange groves, issues an influence upon many questions upon which American people are thinking deeply. La Salle A. Maynard, associate editor of Leslie's Weekly, and well-known journalist, has recently come West to escape the rigorous winter, and in the Monterey home that he occupies with his family he has pursued every interest that he maintained in eastern centers. For five years Mr. Maynard has been chairman of the Press Committee of the Lake Mohawk conference on arbitration, and member of the Executive Committee. He conducts a religious press syndicate, whose service is used by the leading evangelical denominational papers in the United States. He is the promoter of publicity for the National Municipal League of Philadelphia.

In the editorial columns of Leslie's Weekly, to which Mr. Maynard is the largest contributor, strong articles on international arbitration have appeared regularly. The promotion of the world's peace is a cause dear to him. In the Lake Mohawk conference he has been associated with men of national fame. Justice Brewer of the United States Supreme Court, and other distinguished men have given views of the proposed arbitration treaty at Mr. Maynard's request.

Bells of America, their history, poetry and legends are the study that fascinates Mr. Maynard. While literature on the continent telling of bells is voluminous, he says, yet America has no book on this subject. Not because a wealth of information does not await the investigator, for since the days when Queen Anne gave favorite par-

One may be surprised to find that the City Teachers' Institute, "Every century is noted for some particular things," said he. "The nineteenth century is noted for its materialism, and though I am not a prophet nor the son of a prophet, as a Yankee I may be allowed to deduce from this leading century characteristic will be power. Power without poise, however, would be valueless. I may like to ride forty miles an hour but I want to know that I am on the track." Dr. Winship applied in a masterly manner the lessons he deduced from this leading thought to the development of power in the child of today.

This is the eighth time that Dr. Winship has come across the continent to speak to a Los Angeles audience, and there is no doubt that he made an impression. One of the features of this institute in its recent days' sessions was an address by Charles Zuehlke of the University of Chicago. "Democratic Culture," was the broad foundation of his words.

The Polytechnic High School Glee Club gave several selections before the lecture, and Mr. Zuehlke began his talk with a happy reference to their efforts and to the work of the Polytechnic High School, the lecture being delivered in the auditorium of that institution.

Small use has this student of old-world learning and of modern achievement for the culture which comes of nature, industry and leaves out the whither of the great vital world movements of the day.

"One may be steeped in the knowledge of the past," said he, and not know that we are making history today. He who lives in the past and does not know the personalities of the present, or who has not the great knowledge of the tendencies of things, knows not democratic culture."

The keynote of his address lay in a quotation from Bonquet: "Culture is the habit of the mind, instinct with purpose, cognizant of a tendency and connection in human achievement, able and industrious in discerning the great from the trivial."

"There are three things that the man of today cannot afford to be ignorant of," said Mr. Zuehlke, "and they are all different and seem to have no relation. These are evolution, higher criticism of the Bible, and Socialism."

NEW TORPEDO FOR THE NAVY.

Whitehead Being Displaced by the Turbine.

This is a Faster and More Powerful Shell.

Department Spends Millions Installing Missile.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The United States Navy has adopted a new torpedo, and the work of supplying naval stations with this improved high-speed engine of destruction has already begun. Three hundred have been contracted for by the government, and between twenty-five and fifty delivered. The new self-propelling steel shells will travel eight knots faster than the Whitehead, and almost twice as far, the quantity of explosive material carried being just about the same, says the Evening Post.

The turbine torpedo catches its maximum speed only a few seconds after it strikes the water. It can moreover be fired successfully under water from the submarine tubes of warships, a feature that was noticeable failure with the old Whitehead.

A naval officer, who is an authority, said today that the success of the new Bliss-Leavitt torpedo means that torpedo attacks in future naval battles will be delivered at long ranges, and not at close quarters as naval experts agree. Togo's torpedo assault upon Honshu was the last summer in the Korean Straits.

WHEN THEY COST.

Torpedoes to build cost proportionally more than battleships, and the danger of losing them in practice is, of course, greater. Nevertheless the naval experts have put their faith in these delicately-built, small, self-propelling steel shells, and the government, it is said, will now authorize an expenditure of over two millions on the first installment of the new turbines. The tests were made this month in Nagasaki Bay, where the latest new Bliss-Leavitt dirigible torpedo three successive times struck the center of a fifty-yard net at a distance of 1300 yards from the proving steamer Sarah Thorne.

The new torpedoes are being built at the E. W. Bliss Company works in Brooklyn, where a force of 300 skilled mechanics, under the direction of naval experts and a naval inspecting officer, give their undivided attention to the work of turning out and putting the intricate machinery of these self-propelling, explosive shells together. The government is a very particular client to work for, and Navy Department specifications are usually more detailed and complete than any other known to contractors. Every piece of steel, brass, or bronze which enters into the 1224 pounds of material that goes to make up a torpedo has to be to the least fraction of an inch, according to specification. The turbine engine, each of valve and screw is different. Each piece of tubing must be tested to stand a pressure of 1000 pounds. A little 3/4-inch brass piping was shown yesterday that had been tested to 3000 pounds.

Expensive high-power machinery is used in the manufacture of torpedoes. Heavy pieces of machinery that will cut hard steel as easily as a paper-knife sink into cardboard. The material itself must be without strain, and stand such pressure. Accidents in torpedo manufacture have been few, and those that have occurred have been from the machinery rather than explosives, which are quite the simplest part of the invention. The expert supervising the construction of the new torpedoes bears evidence to this. The burning of the turbine wheel of a torpedo on the practice ground cut this man's arm into three pieces.

IN THE SHOP.

It is a very peaceful scene in this shop where the future engines of destruction of the navy are being constructed. If there was not so much hammering of steel against steel the visitor would almost imagine he was in a clock factory, for the fine work impressed one quite as the coarser and more massive. Workmen using hair fine to get the difference of one thousandth of an inch rub elbows with shop mates whose practiced eye and hand guide ponderous machines of tremendous power. This same factory made all the Whitehead torpedoes for the navy, except about twenty-five which the government bought at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War.

In the assembling-room, where the parts of the torpedo are put together, the finished product looks not unlike a long shining steel cigar, with a piston-wheel stuck at its end. The Bliss-Leavitt torpedo is more sharply than the old Whitehead. Its nose is not so blunt and its lines generally are more tapering. From the tip of its nose to its propeller and motor machinery is a 120-horse-power turbine engine, an air flask ninety-three inches long, which will stand a pressure of 2250 pounds to the square inch, and space enough for about 300 pounds of explosive material and machinery that will set it off and blow the torpedo and anything it strikes into a million pieces. The air flask is the storage chamber for the compressed air which drives the turbine engine and propels the torpedo. By means of an alcohol burner ignited automatically this air is heated to increase its efficiency.

WHERE SUPERSTITION LIES.

In the greater strength of the air flask and the power and simplicity combined in the turbine engine lies the superiority of the new torpedo over the old. Its propelling power is able to drive it farther and faster than anything yet offered to the navies of the world. This makes it more perfectly controlled, and at the same time more accurate. It is claimed for the new torpedo that it can be launched from beneath the surface of the water—that is, to say, from tubes in a warship's underbody. Such a practice was roundly unsuccessful with the Whitehead, but the submarine tubes on warships were abandoned, and all torpedo firing was done from the decks, even though the torpedo lost speed and direction in firing them.

The new turbine torpedo is near enough in shape to the old Whitehead to make the same tubes do for launching, and this will eliminate a large expense in overhauling the firing machinery aboard the battleships. The work in getting the new shells out and transporting them to their various destinations, the only other change in the substitution will be the instruction of officers and men and the precautions taken for picking the torpedoes up after practice. With the price for each torpedo over $2000 (possibly nearer $3000), commanders of torpedo boats will not take many chances in target practice.

PRACTICE HEADS.

For this work the waters of some untroubled bay are chosen, and in place of the war head, or explosive point, on each torpedo a practice head is screwed on, and the steel shells are discharged from the tubes into the water minus their explosive material. Besides this precaution, the steering apparatus of each torpedo is adjusted so that the shell will come to the surface after traveling a certain distance, and may be picked up after its engine has ceased running. At night, boat commanders have a scheme of fastening some phosphorescent material to the sides of the shells so that their right may be traced in this way. If a boat commander loses a torpedo in practice, he is often compelled to avoid trial by court-martial in order to prove that the loss was unavoidable.

SHAW'S HERO IS CARNEGIE.

LATEST WORK BY AUTHOR OF "MRS. WARREN'S PROFESSION."

Mainly Concerned With a Millionaire Philosopher, and the Actor Who Plays the Part in London is Carefully Made up as the Laird of Skibo.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES

LONDON, Dec. 2.—It is no exaggeration to say that a more expectant audience has seldom gathered in a London playhouse than that which crowded the Court Theatre yesterday afternoon for the first performance of George Bernard Shaw's much heralded new play, "Major Barbara." A feverishly interested audience and an uncommonly brilliant one, too, which included A. J. Balfour, the Prime Minister; Sir Oliver Lodge and Mr. James, leader of the famous raid, to name only the best known of the many celebrities present.

And no wonder that "Major Barbara" was awaited with more than ordinary curiosity, considering the extent to which Shaw's work dominated things of late. He has, of course, been a figure that ever since the excitement in the United States over "Mrs. Warren's Profession," but he has also been the enormous success of "Candida" and "Man and Superman" had made all the difference in Bernard Shaw's standing as a dramatist. Hereafter merely a brilliant faddist, or satirist whose lampoons were too subtle to be intelligible, the tendency in this country of late has been to acclaim Shaw as a master mind, especially all the intellectual world of London, headed by the King himself, went to see "John Bull's Other Island" and "The Doctor in Spite of Himself." "Discussion in three acts" to be like, to play in which Annie Russell will share all the way from the United States.

Well, "Major Barbara" proves to be a place with "John Bull's Other Island," which failed at home because there was too much talk in it of the head of a Salvation Army squad. For there is no doubt that the millionaire manufacturer of fighting machines in Mr. Shaw's new play, is Mr. Carnegie, and lest there should be any question about this he is named. "Major Barbara" is a play, in which the author is carefully made up as the Laird of Skibo, and the author's whisky manufacturer "whose product is advertised on the Thames Embankment" is a caricature of Sir Thomas Dewar.

Annie Russell plays the part of the capitalist's daughter, Barbara, who is a place with "John Bull's Other Island," which failed at home because there was too much talk in it of the head of a Salvation Army squad. For there is no doubt that the millionaire manufacturer of fighting machines in Mr. Shaw's new play, is Mr. Carnegie, and lest there should be any question about this he is named. "Major Barbara" is a play, in which the author is carefully made up as the Laird of Skibo, and the author's whisky manufacturer "whose product is advertised on the Thames Embankment" is a caricature of Sir Thomas Dewar.

There is talk of interminable-though it goes without saying that much of it is highly brilliant. But Mr. Shaw broke his word to us, and broken it in an unexpected way. He promises, remember, "a discussion in three acts," and recently warned "romantic playgoers" that he had "thrown them over completely." In "Major Barbara" he is just this circumstance that inclines one to believe that the latest Shawian drama will fill the theatre of "John Bull's Other Island" when it is produced in the United States. For the author is just enough of one to be a discussion, and romantic playgoers are not thrown over completely.

But "Major Barbara" is not merely a discussion, and romantic playgoers are not thrown over completely. Behind the stage Carnegie with his ironclad habit of Greek pounding a brass drum—also in the service of the Salvation Army. He is Major Barbara's lover, who has joined the Booth force in order to be near her, but who ultimately becomes the manager of the factory where her father's death-dealing business is turned out. There is, it appears, a tradition in the Underhauff family that his head shall always adopt a foundling as his business successor, and Andrew Underhauff's insistence on following this rule and disinheriting his own son, he and his wife have quarreled, and separated several years before the play opens. The father's death-dealing business is turned out. Meanwhile, however, the wealthy brewer already mentioned, has offered the shelter of his handsome club, which Barbara refuses, objecting to the means by which the money has been made. But her superior overrules the girl, and furthermore accepts a substantial contribution from the manufacturer of the handkerchiefs, and followed by Barbara, she is followed by her father, the erstwhile pedagogue, with the big drum.

There the play, as such, ends. All that remains is to talk about the Salvation Army, the press, alcohol, charity, Donatism's music, English is true, we know that the capitalist has won, and that Barbara is a convert to his ideas, but then we do not care greatly, for we are rather fatigued by

BACK FROM BRAZIL.

Eminent Civil Engineer Returns from Important Business Call to South America.

James D. Schuyler, the distinguished civil engineer of this city, has just returned from Brazil, after fulfilling a duty that came to him as a distinguished honor.

His reputation has made him well known all over the world, and he was called to Brazil to inspect and report upon the construction of two large dams. One of these is being erected by the Rio de Janeiro Light and Power Company, a Canadian corporation which is putting $40,000,000 into its several operations there, developing a splendid system of street railways, as well as electric light and power.

At Fullerton it was found that the dam had applied for and obtained work as a bootblack in a barber shop, after working in a livery stable. About ten days ago the boy left Fullerton, and it is asserted he came to Los Angeles. Here he was turned over to the Salvation Army officers, but Rev. Frame claims to have information that the boy was subsequently given into the custody of the patrolman. Further than this there is no information of the lad, and his parents are much worried over his absence.

At the time of the affair was published in The Times and Rev. Frame is in possession of several letters written him by friends and persons who claim to have seen the boy.

I am much surprised, said Rev. Frame last night, to learn that my son has sought employment in such capacity as has been reported to me. His education and training have been quite entirely different lines, and I cannot account for it only through the fact that he is not strong mentally.

At Last the Truth Comes About Europe.

President of Redondo Returns Disgusted

Refreshing Change from Usual Accounts.

"Pleasant trip to Europe?" The short of unutterable which chopped the exclamation late yesterday afternoon made clerks in the office of the Los and Redondo Railway June 1909, and I have been back from Europe and telling all about his experiences and sharp jerky words sayable.

"The earth like the harvest out in two grand subdivisions, Europe and America, and I hope I have better luck in the berth I draw hereafter than I did in my trip," continued Mr. Garnes.

"Of all the miserable, nerve-ridden, uncomfortable, rotten, man could ever dream of lived through in my three abroad."

Los Angeles primarily purpose of seeking rest and quiet was a vain chase. I didn't get the trail of it until I got from the train in Los Angeles day.

CANDID ABOUT IT.

"Thank God I've got the honest strength of mind to say that in Heaven or on earth could not have made the trip again. Most who go abroad think they are cents home and blow all about it, but I don't know a thing about it."

"I've been through the dark, horrible nightmare it was to whole thing was a sore disappointment. The only relief was getting home. Good old Los Angeles! Why bless my soul, I wouldn't back after lost down in London, and I wouldn't go back again."

"I had no idea of going back so, after living in the smothering, stifling, and I hope I have better luck in the berth I draw hereafter than I did in my trip," continued Mr. Garnes.

"The sickness of my wife was on her account, and I hope I have better luck in the berth I draw hereafter than I did in my trip," continued Mr. Garnes.

FLEES AFTER TAKING WIFE'S LAST DOLLAR.

Adolph Herz, Contracting Painter Whose Credit Was Almost Unlimited, Leaves Suddenly Owing Many Supply Houses—Will Not Return.

AFTER borrowing the last dollar from his wife and kissing her an affectionate farewell, Adolph Herz, a contracting painter, left his home at No. 771 Crocker street, on Tuesday, saying he had a large contract at Monterey. On Friday he wrote his wife he would never return. His property was attached yesterday. The wife is penniless and broken-hearted.

Surrounded with pathetic incidents is the sudden leaving-taking of Herz, who for the past four years has lived happily with his wife.

Involved heavily in debt and seeing no way out of his serious financial embarrassment the contractor decided to flee from his business haunts rather than face his creditors. He left just before an inevitable crisis in his business affairs.

Contractor Herz was considered one of the most skilled men at his trade. He always had plenty of work, and gave employment to a large force of men. Recently he has handled large contracts and these, apparently, have been his undoing.

His creditors include almost every paint house in the city. To Whittier Co. Paint Company he owes $1500. R. N. Nason Company and others hold accounts against the fleeing painter, whose total indebtedness reaches nearly $4000.

At the home on Crocker street Mrs. Herz is almost prostrated with grief. She is at a loss to explain her husband's departure. She is determined to shield him at all hazards and has only kind words for the man who has left her to face the world without a penny.

Stacked in a shed at the rear of the house is a quantity of paint white lead and oil, valued at $1000. An attachment was levied on the paint yesterday afternoon by the L. C. Check Law and Collection Agency, and later in the day other attachments were placed by creditors.

Friends of Herz have known for some time that a financial crash was impending, as the painter is said to have handled jobs at too low a figure. Herz, who is a native of Germany, and his name was good at any of the supply houses in Los Angeles.

It is known that the affairs of Herz were shaky. The contractor, in payment of a debt of $150, gave a check for the amount to N. Nason Co. The check was drawn on the Southern California Savings Bank and was returned marked "no funds."

Accounts of Herz were placed in the hands of "A. Becker agency. On Monday last, Herz called on Becker and paid one note for $150, and asked for an extension of time on the rest.

IF THIS DEAL GOES THROUGH.

Big Stock Exchange Building at Fourth and Main. Story of J. R. Collins' Suspension Leaks Out.

Financial gossip says that if James R. Collins of James R. Collins & Bros., stock and bond brokers, puts through today a deal he has been working on, an eight-story stock-exchange building will rise at the southeast corner of Fourth and Main streets, and Collins will be in a position to straighten out the financial troubles which eventuated a few weeks ago in his suspension from the Los Angeles Stock Exchange.

Whether the success of this deal would result in the reinstatement of Collins is a question. The suspended member himself declined yesterday to discuss the matter in any of its phases.

"This is not my time to talk," he said. Fred C. Adams of the governing board of the exchange said: "Mr. Collins was suspended for 'kiting' checks—giving checks in exchange for cash when he had not the money in bank to meet them. I do not think that a settlement by him would be followed by his reinstatement."

Other members of the governing board either declined to make statements or declared themselves in ignorance of the likelihood of Collins regaining his seat.

A little gathered here and a little there, from persons connected in one way or another with the Collins deal, suggests the following as an outline of the transactions leading up to the broker's suspension:

DEATH-DODGING HIS PASTIME.

MISFORTUNE MARKS BUT FAILS TO MASTER MAXSON.

After Fall Down Mine Shaft, Bump by Trolley, Smash in Auto, Run away With Horse and Railroad Wrecks Galore, Irrigation Congress Secretary Comes up Smiling.

A hale and hearty, though a bit wheezy survivor of an unprecedented list of accidents, Col. H. B. Maxson of Reno, Nev., secretary of the National Irrigation Congress, has come smiling through a concatenation of disasters, any one of which would have won for the ordinary man a granite shaft and a fitting obituary.

But the Colonel is still on deck, although a little shaken and cautious after the last of his bone-breaking experiences, a couple of months ago.

"If I had ever carried an accident policy, and collected what would have been due me every time I have been jumped upon and been back-and-forth dancing upon my fate in the last three years, I would be a millionaire today," said Col. Maxson last night in the lobby of the Hollenbeck Hotel.

It seems that misfortunes began to pile upon him about three years ago, dating from the time he fell down an abandoned shaft out in Nevada, and broke a couple of legs, and lay there for a week, and then he was run over by a trolley car, and he was run over again, and was in three railroad wrecks in as many months, but came through all right. Then he got mixed up in a wreck of the Owl in which some twenty-nine people were killed and injured, but he was not hurt. He said he could not help but feel the victims out of the wreckage.

"After that I was troubled considerably with my stomach and liver. The doctors gave me up, and one of them said I declined to be operated on, and wanted me to let him take out my stomach and substitute a piece of gas pipe. But I declined, and worried along as best I could, until I was all jammed up in an automobile smash in a garage at Salt Lake City."

In the meantime, in the story goes, Collins' bank balance had suffered from other deals, and to carry him along he had contracted an indebtedness of something like $5000 in favor of Fred Adams, and had also mortgaged for $2500 his seat on the exchange, while on the top of me, and executed a spirited dance on my poor remnant."

"That was pretty bad. Sort of rubbing it in. ### St. Louis Homes Broken up by Flight of Missouri Girls With Oriental Don Juans.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 18.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Benevolence of the Philippines having its inception during the World's Fair has caused the disruption of several homes in this city and the flight of a number of Occidental maidens with Oriental don Juans. There is no consolation, however, no case has been discovered where white woman became enamored of an Ignoramus.

The courts today severed the knot which bound Alma Hayden Sawyer, a Secret Service agent, to Basile Josephine Sawyer, his wife. The girl, who had been during the World's Fair, the sickle Josephine sought and received attention from the Philippine army corps at the beginning of the Civil War and for four years served her country in that capacity, being officially commended many times for her remarkable display of bravery.

"Now, just bring me a mirror," exclaimed the woman to clearly view the wound on her forehead. She persisted in being allowed to mend her own injuries, and when informed that a large mirror was not at hand her crestfallen countenance was a reproach to the surgeons.

"Really," she said, "I feel quite at home in here, and it would be a delight to me to be allowed to handle the needle once more, but, of course, if I cannot have a large mirror in which to see well it will be useless to try."

Behind the smiles which the surgeons could not suppress at the courageous expression of nerve, was a heart-

Former Army Nurse Shows Her Old-Time Nerve.

Injured on the Street, Mrs. M. T. Hastings, Aged Seventy-nine, Insists Upon Sewing up Wound in Her Head Without Anesthesia. Won Admiration of Surgeons.

Despite her seventy-nine years, Mrs. M. T. Hastings, who resides at the home of her niece, No. 1248 West Twenty-second street, last night persisted in sewing up a scalp wound, which she sustained in a fall at First and Spring streets after being removed to the Receiving Hospital.

When the aged woman was placed on the operating table in the hospital she was fully conscious, and as she began conversing with the police surgeons in technical terms regarding her injuries it was soon surmised that she had more than an ordinary acquaintance with medicine. Inquiry developed the fact that the woman studied several years with the view to practicing medicine, but entered the army nurse corps at the beginning of the Civil War and for four years served her country in that capacity, being officially commended many times for her remarkable display of bravery.

IMPORTS OF DIAMONDS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Imports of diamonds and other precious stones have reached the remarkable total of $77,000,000 at this port for the present year. Not only has the annual increase of from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 been kept up, but the banner year of 1904, with $66,000,000, has been beaten by nearly $11,000,000.

HAVANA, Dec. 18.—The House of Representatives today passed without debate an appropriation of $10,000 to assist the striking Cuban cigar-makers at Key West. The Havana provincial council today appropriated $2000 and the Havana City Council $1000 for the aid of Key West strikers.

HOUSE FULL OF DRINK.

WARD'S was a sensational surprise. It is near Smith's, but across the street from the city limits.

The proprietor, in his terror, admitted that he had no license and that he was supposed to be running a private house, but when twelve or thirteen parties of drunken people as his "guests," it is much to be feared that the barroom was standing wide open and the party trilled in a wailer.

Sheriff and Party Get Through Guard and into Wicked Road house. Proprietor Grovels Pitifully in His Abasement.

It is easy to understand the stories of the young girls who have been enticed out of their homes and into the arms of the Board of Supervisors.

Although not actually preceded by Chinese gongs beating and a brass band, the night of the Sheriff's trip last night, the house was dark and the front room was like a country "sitting room," only with two nickel-in-the-slot machines in one corner.

The woman said at least a dozen times in three minutes that the place had been closed for some time, but she had not had time to get into a minute later. She then led the way back to a barroom, where an old negro mammy sat picking the bones of a duck that had been dined upon.

The barroom was cold and cheerless. After hanging around for a while without results, the party left. The woman was asked if there were any girls there, and said there had been some, but they had all gone home.

The back next went to the Smith's "Suburban Hotel," which has been written up many times in all its toughness by The Times.

Last night it presented a dejected appearance. An automobile stood in front of the door and in the parlor were a man and a handsome, well-dressed woman. They could be heard talking and laughing. The rest of the house was dark.

Smith, a big, overgrown man, who had a peculiar childish look, met the Sheriff in the front room. They had known each other years ago. Smith felt very bitter about the newspaper notoriety and made continual crushing remarks about the papers.

He showed the way through the house at the Sheriff's invitation. It consisted of two dining-rooms, several bedrooms, two parlors, a barroom and several nickel-in-the-slot machines.

Smith said he had both a restaurant and a saloon license. He seemed to attach no importance to the great number of bedrooms he had, and made no secret of the fact that a man could come along with a girl and get a room.

IF THIS DEAL GOES THROUGH.

Big Stock Exchange Building at Fourth and Main. Story of J. R. Collins' Suspension Leaks Out.

Financial gossip says that if James R. Collins of James R. Collins & Bros., stock and bond brokers, puts through today a deal he has been working on, an eight-story stock-exchange building will rise at the southeast corner of Fourth and Main streets, and Collins will be in a position to straighten out the financial troubles which eventuated a few weeks ago in his suspension from the Los Angeles Stock Exchange.

Whether the success of this deal would result in the reinstatement of Collins is a question. The suspended member himself declined yesterday to discuss the matter in any of its phases.

"This is not my time to talk," he said. Fred C. Adams of the governing board of the exchange said: "Mr. Collins was suspended for 'kiting' checks—giving checks in exchange for cash when he had not the money in bank to meet them. I do not think that a settlement by him would be followed by his reinstatement."

Other members of the governing board either declined to make statements or declared themselves in ignorance of the likelihood of Collins regaining his seat.

A little gathered here and a little there, from persons connected in one way or another with the Collins deal, suggests the following as an outline of the transactions leading up to the broker's suspension:

DEATH-DODGING HIS PASTIME.

MISFORTUNE MARKS BUT FAILS TO MASTER MAXSON.

After Fall Down Mine Shaft, Bump by Trolley, Smash in Auto, Run away With Horse and Railroad Wrecks Galore, Irrigation Congress Secretary Comes up Smiling.

A hale and hearty, though a bit wheezy survivor of an unprecedented list of accidents, Col. H. B. Maxson of Reno, Nev., secretary of the National Irrigation Congress, has come smiling through a concatenation of disasters, any one of which would have won for the ordinary man a granite shaft and a fitting obituary.

But the Colonel is still on deck, although a little shaken and cautious after the last of his bone-breaking experiences, a couple of months ago.

"If I had ever carried an accident policy, and collected what would have been due me every time I have been jumped upon and been back-and-forth dancing upon my fate in the last three years, I would be a millionaire today," said Col. Maxson last night in the lobby of the Hollenbeck Hotel.

It seems that misfortunes began to pile upon him about three years ago, dating from the time he fell down an abandoned shaft out in Nevada, and broke a couple of legs, and lay there for a week, and then he was run over by a trolley car, and he was run over again, and was in three railroad wrecks in as many months, but came through all right. Then he got mixed up in a wreck of the Owl in which some twenty-nine people were killed and injured, but he was not hurt. He said he could not help but feel the victims out of the wreckage.

"After that I was troubled considerably with my stomach and liver. The doctors gave me up, and one of them said I declined to be operated on, and wanted me to let him take out my stomach and substitute a piece of gas pipe. But I declined, and worried along as best I could, until I was all jammed up in an automobile smash in a garage at Salt Lake City."

In the meantime, in the story goes, Collins' bank balance had suffered from other deals, and to carry him along he had contracted an indebtedness of something like $5000 in favor of Fred Adams, and had also mortgaged for $2500 his seat on the exchange, while on the top of me, and executed a spirited dance on my poor remnant."

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Mayor McCall yesterday named Messrs. Perkins, Winters and Matthews for the new board of public works, but the Council declined to ratify the appointments.

To McGuire & McClure yesterday went the award of contract for furnishing thirty steel garbage wagons and teams to match.

January 24 is the date set by the Council for the beginning of that library investigation.

City Attorney Mathews yesterday declined to sign the contract for the new lighting system on Spring street; the Council reconsidered its action, re-approved the contract and sent it to the City Clerk for execution.

The last of the late Mrs. M. A. E. Newble, who died at Florence, Italy, was filed for probate yesterday.

In the semi-annual settlement between the county and the State, the County Auditor's report shows that Los Angeles will pay this year to the State about half a million of dollars.

AT THE CITY HALL.

FIRST BARREL MISSES FIRE.

MAYOR'S PUBLIC WORKS BOARD IS NOT CONFIRMED.

Names of Edmund T. Perkins, John R. Winters and C. O. Matthews were submitted to Council, which is friendly only to later—deadlock is probable.

EDMUND T. PERKINS, CHARLES O. WINTERS, JOHN R. MATTHEWS.

These are the names which Mayor McCall yesterday afternoon sent to the Council as his appointments to the Municipal Board of Public Works.

The accompanying message filed but three lines: "I hereby appoint and recommend for confirmation the following named gentlemen as members of the Board of Public Works."

Councilman Healy promptly moved that the appointments and the message be referred to the Committee of the Whole. This motion was seconded by Ford, the Mayor's successor as Councilman from the First Ward.

Healy moved a substitute that the appointments be confirmed. He received no second. Then Healy's motion was put and Howton voted with the majority of the Council for reference to a committee.

A member of the so-called "Public Opinion League," when the Committee of the Whole will meet.

"Whenever the spirit moves us," Healy said, "I am going to move."

Mayor McCall expressed surprise that his appointments were not confirmed. Councilman Healy said that he would not agree to the appointment of either Perkins or Matthews.

"I have sent in my choice," said the Mayor after the Council session, "now it is up to the Council. The Board of Public Works is the least of my troubles."

Councilmen are just as frank. "The selection made by the Mayor is not with our approval," say the legislators. "Winters is all right, but we do not select one name out of the bunch for confirmation. We shall decline to act on any until we receive the names satisfactory to us."

Explaining this attitude the Councilmen say that if they were to confirm an appointment, legal technicalities might grow out of the situation by reason of the fact that there would be a Council Committee known as the Board of Public Works, and a portion of another board.

The names submitted by the Mayor yesterday are the same as the ones he proposed to the Council in an executive session five months ago. At that time a committee representing the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Association, the Automobile Club, the Municipal League and the Mayor, all on one letter telling him that the names submitted did not meet the approval of those organizations. The Councilmen take this expression of opinion as good ground for refusal to ratify the Mayor's appointments.

The charter requires that the terms of the Board of Public Works shall commence on January 1, 1935. The Mayor said he sent the names to the Council in order to get the charter requirements.

W. J. Danforth, ex-Democratic political boss of the Thirty-second Ward, Chicago, now chairman of the local Public Ownership League, and business agent for the Mayor's League, said that the Council's action was a "stunt" and that the Mayor's appointments were "a joke."

A few labor-unions agitators came to the Council session looking for their names on the list of the Mayor's appointments.

To their disappointment, the Mayor did not even mention the fact that the walking delegates had gone to him in a body and appealed to him to place one of their number on the municipal board.

The charter provision creating a Board of Public Works stipulates that there shall be no change in the method of conducting business at the municipal building until the members of the new board take the oath of office. This they will not be permitted to do until their appointments have been ratified.

The Council would celebrate its centennial by celebrating the entrance of the Owens River to the San Fernando Valley. The members feel that this will be a time for rejoicing and they desire to do so on a broad platform as possible.

By virtue of a Council resolution adopted at yesterday's session, the Mayor is empowered to take the necessary steps for the appointment of a commission of four representative citizens to handle the world's fair proposition.

One commissioner is to be named by the Mayor, one by the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association and one by the Municipal League.

Pico Heights has organized itself into a Home Improvement Association. Some of the Third Warders have come to the conclusion that their halfheartedness is missing a portion of the good things that come out of the City Hall. They have united for the purpose of making their wants known.

Yesterday three communications from the Home Improvement Association were received by the Council. One asks for a police sub-station, the second for an additional fire engine station; the third suggests that the streets within the confines of the association territory be placed in better condition.

The district is bounded by Pico, Washington and Arlington streets and Harvard boulevard.

BLANCHARD NAMED.
NEW ART COMMISSIONER.
F. W. Blanchard's appointment as a member of the Municipal Art Commission proved more popular with the Council yesterday than the Mayor's selection of a Board of Public Works. The Council was expecting the message announcing the personnel of the new board when the municipal-art message was read. The Council members did not know there was a vacancy on this commission, and the message about the Council table and in the hands of the Mayor.

Kern was the first to speak up. "This is for the Municipal Art Commission," he announced. "I guess it is all right, and I move that the appointments be confirmed."

"Municipal Art, Oh, yes," chimed in Healy, "I second that motion." And the appointment was ratified unanimously.

Mr. Blanchard succeeds Fielding J. Gilson, whose term expired on December 31. The new commissioner is a prominent member of the Broadway Improvement Association. He was one of the promoters of the Broadway lighting project.

WILL OF LATE MRS. M. A. E. NEWBLE FILED FOR PROBATE.

Guy Luke Cuzner, Son of Woman Who Formerly Lived Here and Died in Italy, Files the Necessary Petition With Odd Document of Italian Making.

The will of the late Mrs. Maria A. E. Newble, who died at Florence, Italy, on May 12, was filed yesterday for probate, though the amount of property here is small.

The Newble was divorced from James Cuzner in this city several years ago, and leaves one son, Guy Luke Cuzner, who is the petitioner for probate. It is set out that Mrs. Newble had her domicile in this country, though she had made her home in Italy for some time, and most of her interests are centered there, as appears from her will.

The will, written in Italian, with an English translation annexed, forms a curious illustration of foreign methods. The document itself consists of a few paragraphs, but the verifications cover about four sheets of typewriting.

The total value of the estate amounts to about $10,000. The Italian authorities are ready to turn over as soon as an administrator is appointed. The executor named in the will is Guy Luke Cuzner, who is the petitioner for probate.

Coroner's inquest threw little light on the manner of death or identity of man killed by the Santa Fe train last Thursday night. He returned a verdict that the man died by being "mauled un-der Santa Fe Limited," but neither murder nor accident. Deputy Oscar Kunkin, forefend guard yesterday, testified that he saw an altercation of
